

Presbyterians Celebrate 75th Church Anniversary

Story of How First Presbyterian Church of Elmendorf Street Was Organized Interestingly Told by Judge Clearwater in Letter Read at Celebration—Other Interesting Features.

The chapel of the First Presbyterian Church was crowded on Thursday evening to observe the 75th anniversary of the church.

The spectacular feature of the evening was the appearance of ten ladies dressed in beautiful silks and broaded satins of the long ago. There were beaded overskirts whose ample trains swept the floor, Paisley shawls, rare laces and a beautiful beaded cape. Several hats bedecked with flowers and ribbons exhibited the genius of the milliner's creative art. The ladies thus arrayed entered through the doors at the front and rear of the room, coming in by twos and at intervals so that the audience, which gasped at each appearance, had time to draw breath before the next couple came within range of astonished vision.

These ladies formed a chorus and sang a number of the old songs familiar to the people of the last generation, such as "In the Gloaming," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Juanita," etc. Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Cady sang "The Old Oaken Bucket" as a duet, and Mrs. Cady gave "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." William Murray sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Mr. Murray's mother, dressed in a beautiful old costume and carrying a quaint bouquet, represented Maggie.

The following ladies composed this popular chorus: Mrs. D. H. McNaught, Mrs. Delbert Griffin, Mrs. J. C. Mullen, Mrs. Clarence Rowe, Mrs. Samuel Brown, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Jane Hummel, Mrs. J. W. Murray, Mrs. William G. DuBois, Mrs. Putnam Cady.

Miss Lucinda Merritt gave several appropriate readings which added much to the interest of the program. Statistical facts regarding pastors and members, together with dates and events of interest, were read, but the real contribution of the evening was made in a letter from Judge Clearwater. It was hoped that the judge might be present and tell the story, but the letter was sent instead. It is of general interest to the people of Kingston and shows how far-reaching results come from seeming trivial and unrelated beginnings. It also reveals the fact that the First Presbyterian Church was once the leading church in the community.

At the conclusion of the program a social hour was enjoyed, ice cream and homemade cake being served by the ladies of the New Era League.

Judge Clearwater's Letter.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 9th, 1929.
To Reverend Putnam Cady, D. D.,
Minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Kingston, New York.

My Dear Dr. Cady:
Profoundly to my regret, I shall not be able to attend your seventy-fifth anniversary service to review for your congregation the illustrious history of your church, and the incident which led to its organization. I assume you fully are aware that Presbyterianism in this county developed from the influence of the Reformed Dutch Church, notably the one which affectionately we designate as the First Dutch.

The first Presbyterian Church in the county was established on the first of January, 1764, at Marlborough, and was incorporated on the 27th day of June, 1785. The first Dutch Church services were held in Dutch and English in 1653, the church being regularly incorporated in 1659. In 1678 my remote ancestor, Theunis Jacobsen Klearwater, with several other Dutch Burghers, petitioned the Classis of Amsterdam to send here a Dominie who could preach in both Dutch and English. Thus the First Dutch was founded and has become the mother of twenty-seven other churches. As the community essentially was Dutch, it grew in wealth and influence. Its first church edifice was destroyed by the Indians; its second edifice was burned by the British. It outgrew the third structure, and the fourth was the edifice now occupied by the Roman Catholic Congregation of St. Joseph's. That edifice proving too small for the congregation, and there being some hesitancy about building a larger one, a considerable portion of the congregation decided to build what was the Fair Street Reformed Church, and of that congregation became the pastor. Dr. Smuller became the pastor. Dr. Smuller was a remarkable and unusual man.

It is not without hesitation that I yield to your urgent request to include in this letter my recollection of the important episode which led to the founding of your church, an episode which attracted almost nationwide attention at the time of its happening. Among the members of the doctors' congregation was a man of wealth and refinement, who

Smith to Visit Roosevelt Sunday

Affairs of Democratic Party to be Considered in the Light of Recent Suggestions Sought by Party Leaders—May Also Discuss Legislation.

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP).—One of the chief purposes of the visit of former Governor Alfred E. Smith to Albany tomorrow, sources close to Governor Roosevelt indicated today, would be a conference with the governor on a variety of subjects relating to the affairs of the Democratic party. The former governor announced in New York last night that he was coming to Albany to bid his daughter, Mrs. John Warner and his granddaughter, Mary Adams Warner, goodbye before leaving on a vacation in Florida.

Some connection between the fact that the former governor was scheduled to make a radio address over a nationwide hookup Wednesday night and the visit with Roosevelt was seen by political observers. Smith was expected to stay until Monday afternoon.

Two potential subjects for discussion were believed to be the proposal to place the power of construction of future New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnels in hands other than those of the port authority of New York and the announcement yesterday by Governor Roosevelt that he would not discuss with the legislature any proposal to consolidate counties. The consolidation of counties was favored and received active support from Smith during his administration.

Those at the capital remained undecided today as to whether John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, would be included in the conference tomorrow. Democratic leaders, including the governor, have been receiving suggestions as to what form the program of the party should take. The suggestions were made in answer to a query by party leaders, sent to party figures throughout the country.

King Unchanged, Queen Mary III

London, Jan. 12 (AP).—Physicians attending King George had another royal patient to care for today—Queen Mary.

The Queen was reported to be suffering from catarrh, in common with thousands of her subjects. She did not take her usual drive yesterday, but her condition was understood not to be serious.

The King's condition remained stationary, but without any indications that anxiety had increased. The royal family expressed satisfaction that there had been no retrogression.

The week now ending is the eighth of the King's illness and the main trouble had been the continuance of weakness, which is taxing all the skill of the doctors and nurses. The cold weather which is prevalent with bitter and penetrating winds added to the handicap, although all the resources of science were employed to counteract these unfavorable conditions.

Death Plane Pilot Decided by Coin

Middletown, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP).—A flip of a coin decided who would fly the ill-fated Fokker, which crashed near here yesterday with a loss of eight lives, on its return flight from the army air depot here to Bolling Field.

Captain H. A. Dinger, who piloted the ship to this airport, and Lieutenant Henry R. Angel, tossed the coin. Dinger won the toss and took the controls of an Amphibian that had been reconducted in the Middletown shops and was ready to be returned to Washington.

Upon his arrival at Bolling Field, Dinger was informed of the accident and immediately took to the air and was back at Middletown within an hour to offer any help he could give.

FIXED $15 FOR USING LAST YEAR'S PLATES

William J. Sewell of Woodstock, operating a Chevrolet automobile with 1925 license plates, was arrested in this city Friday evening by Officer Fallon. His car was placed in the police garage and he was paroled in the custody of County Judge Fowler. This morning in city court he was fined $15 by Judge Shufeldt.

Expect Booth Will Refuse to Retire

London, Jan. 12 (AP).—There was some indication today that General Bramwell Booth might refuse to retire as head of the Salvation Army and take the matter to the courts.

The High Council of the Army refused to allow William A. Jowitt, King's counselor, who has been retained to act for the general, to attend the council session and address the members. It was felt in some circles that the engagement of Mr. Jowitt might mean that the dispute was to end in a lawsuit over control of the Army's property.

A dispatch to The Daily Herald from Southwold, where General Booth is ill, said it was understood there on good authority that he intended to fight to the last ditch against the High Council's efforts to retire him. It was stated that if the Council decided to displace him he was prepared to take the matter to the courts.

General Booth promised the seven officials who presented a resolution asking his retirement that he would answer their request on Monday.

The deputation was understood to have insisted that the general must reply plainly "yes" or "no." Members of the deputation were known to be deeply impressed with the enunciated appearance of the general. It was said he looked very old, although he was well able to converse with them.

Musicians' Ball Will Be Informal

The first annual ball of the Musicians' Union which will be held at the armory Wednesday evening without a doubt will be one of the biggest affairs of the season as the advance sale of tickets indicates a large attendance. There is an impression among many that the affair is to be a formal one but this is an error.

There have been no plans made for a formal affair and the musicians are trying to make it an informal dance which can be enjoyed by everyone.

With six orchestras furnishing music, a band concert from 8 until 9 o'clock and refreshments on sale at the refreshment booths those who attend either to dance or to listen to an exceptional program of music will not be disappointed.

The Citizens' Band will open their band concert program with the "Semper Fidelis March" by John Philip Sousa. This march is one of Sousa's famous marches and is played on every program of the United States Marine Band programs on the radio. Among the other marches to be rendered by the band will be the "American Spirit" march by A. Buglione, "On the Air" march by Edwin France Goldman, and the "Police Parade" march by Paul Linke.

The concert will be rendered by the band will be "Vienna Beauties Waltz" by C. M. Zieherer. This composer has written a number of concert numbers and we are sure that the music lovers will enjoy this number as it is on the programs of all the bands in the country. A complete program as well as a personnel of the Citizens' Band will be published later. The tickets for this affair are selling very fast, and a large crowd is expected at the state armory Wednesday, January 16.

General dancing will follow the band concert with music by six orchestras.

KINGSTON MAN INHERITS THIRD OF MOTHER'S ESTATE

New York, Jan. 11.—Reginald S. James of the City Hotel, Kingston, N. Y., is the recipient of a third of the estate of the late Grace W. James, his mother, according to the report of the New York State Transfer Tax Department here today. He receives $32,644. Two daughters, Grace F. Ireland of Monmouth Beach, N. J., and Virginia M. Peyton of New York, receive $71,644 and $79,644 respectively.

Mrs. James's estate was appraised today at $250,338 gross, net $234,932, of which $211,563 is in real estate. Alexander T. Blessing and Mary Calo of Schenectady are executors.

U. S. RUBBER CO. CONTROL PASSES TO DU PONT

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Charles B. Seger is to resign as chairman of the board and president of the United States Rubber Company at the directors' meeting January 15. It was announced today at the offices of the rubber company.

He will be succeeded by F. B. Davis, Jr., of Wilmington, Del., president of the DuPont Visceloid Company. Davis recently was elected a director as the representative of the DuPont interests. The resignation of Mr. Seger marks the passing of full control of the company to the DuPonts.

Recruiting Sergeant Here.

Sergeant Haden F. Wheeler of the United States Army is now stationed at the central postoffice, where young men may enlist in government service. This man, who came here from Catskill, is taking the place of Recruiting Sergeant Mullen and reports that there are many desirable positions open in various infantry outfits. Sergeant Mullen was relieved on account of illness, it was said.

Leaders Look for Stewart Fights Rockefeller Move Congress in Extra Session in Spring

Chicago, Jan. 12 (AP).—The Tribune said today that Robert W. Stewart had begun a vigorous campaign among stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to retain his post as chairman of the board of directors in the face of opposition from the Rockefeller interests.

More than 16,000 employees of the company, who also are stockholders, have received requests from Colonel Stewart, the Tribune said, to all in proxies to be voted for him at the annual meeting March 7, when he comes up for re-election to the executive leadership of the company.

The employee-stockholders, as well as thousands of other stockholders of the company, also have received letters from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., asking them to deposit their proxies with his committee in the move to oust Colonel Stewart.

The Stewart proxies, according to the letters, were to be sent to a committee consisting of Colonel Stewart himself, Edward G. Seubert, president of the company, and Felix T. Graham, secretary. The newspaper interpreted this to mean that Seubert, who heretofore has taken a neutral ground in the Stewart-Rockefeller dispute, had aligned himself with Colonel Stewart.

The Rockefeller letter to stockholders said that Mr. Rockefeller objected only to Stewart on the board, and that he had complete confidence in Seubert and other board members.

Shot for Serving Daughter Liquor

Camden, Ark., Jan. 12 (AP).—The wrath of the father of a 15-year-old girl to whom liquor is alleged to have been served along with about 75 other students at a party held by Camden High School students at a roadhouse near here last fall, culminated yesterday in a shooting affair in which the proprietor of the roadhouse was wounded critically.

Alex Hardin, 25, the proprietor, today is suffering from four bullet wounds in his body and F. E. Sullivan, the girl's father, is in jail charged with the shooting. Little hope is held by hospital officials for Hardin's recovery.

The shooting occurred when Sullivan met Hardin in an alley. Sullivan, according to witnesses, shouted "you can't ruin my daughter," and opened fire with an automatic pistol. Immediately after the shooting Sullivan surrendered to police.

Snow and Sub-Zero Grip Eight States

Chicago, Jan. 12 (AP).—New low temperatures for the year were in prospect for the mid-west today as snow and sub-zero cold gripped eight states.

The temperature dropped to two degrees below zero early today in Chicago. Tonight was expected to bring the new low record.

Biting winds that sent hundreds seeking shelter in missions and falls had converted the outer drive running along the shore of Lake Michigan here into a treacherous sheet of ice.

Wisconsin and upper Michigan were digging out of a heavy snow which, accompanied by high winds, yesterday assumed blizzard proportions. Trains were behind schedule and in many counties bus service was discontinued. Fourteen inches of snow fell at Marshfield, Wis., and Superior experienced a temperature of ten below zero.

Western Iowa was gripped by sub-zero temperatures and in Nebraska the mercury tumbled to zero. Thief River Falls, Minn., yesterday reported the coldest temperature in the mid-west, with 31 below. Devil's Lake, N. D., had 26 below.

Diphtheria Clinic Monday

The free clinic for the prevention of diphtheria will be held as usual Monday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock at the Central Fire Station under the auspices of the board of health. Parents whose children have not been immunized to the disease are urged to bring the children to the clinic that afternoon to be treated with toxin antitoxin. These weekly clinics are proving popular as parents are beginning to realize that diphtheria can be prevented. At the present time nearly five thousand children in the city have been immunized by the use of toxin antitoxin.

Frankfurt's 22 Cents a Pound.
The Western Meat and Poultry Markets at 730 Broadway and at 30 East Strand, are selling small baby frankfurters, their own make, at 22 cents a pound, not a bushel, as appeared in an advertisement in Friday's issue of The Freeman.

Designated for Notary Public.
Thomas Hoffman Clearwater of 210 Washington avenue has been designated for appointment for notary public in and for Ulster county by the secretary of state at Albany.

Pigeon Thief at Work.

It was reported to the police department Friday afternoon that ten pigeons were stolen from 24 Pine street. It is evident that there is a pigeon thief at work in the city for this is the third place visited and pigeons stolen in as many days.

State Troopers' Work Shown In Annual Report

Troop "C" Made 6,849 Arrests Last Year, Resulting in 6,410 Convictions—Stolen Property Valued at $70,000 Recovered—Reckless Driving of Motor Vehicles Accounted for 3,903 Arrests and 3,861 Convictions.

Those who believe the work of the New York State Troopers amounts to little have only to read the annual report of Captain Daniel E. Fox, commander of "C" Troop with headquarters at Sidney, N. Y., and find that this small band of police officials have been very busy during the past year. It is from "C" Troop that the local detachments in this county operate through their local headquarters which are at Woodstock in charge of Sergeant James Cunningham and at Highland in charge of Sergeant John Lockhart. The Woodstock headquarters take general supervision of the men and handle work in the north, east and western end of the county while the Highland headquarters have charge of the Southern Ulster and Ellenville districts.

There are men stationed at various points in the county who do patrol duty under the direction of the local sergeants. This patrol is greatly augmented in the summer months by motorcycle men who are assigned to traffic duty.

During the past year the report of Captain Fox shows horse mounted patrols of "C" Troop covered over 36,000 miles in their territory, over 37,000 miles by automobile patrol and over 230,000 miles by motorcycle patrol. In that time 50 stolen automobiles were recovered through the efforts of the Troopers. Stolen property valued at $70,064.21 was recovered and fines amounting to $50,373.10 were imposed.

In addition many minor matters such as 27 vicious dogs killed, many investigations of minor matters have been attended to and during the winter months in the mountain sections summer boarding houses which were closed for winter were given weekly inspection visits to prevent pilfering of property.

Convictions Total 6,410
A total of 6,849 arrests were made by "C" Troop members during the past year and 6,410 convictions had. There have also been 185 discharged and 273 cases were pending when the year closed. In addition there were 149 convictions in old cases which were pending prior to the beginning of the year's report.

Conservation law violators make up some 60 of the arrests and convictions and the highway law and motor vehicle law violators comprise the bulk of the arrests and convictions.

Reckless driving of motor vehicles alone accounts for 3,903 arrests and 3,861 convictions.

Penal law violators account for 1,888 of the arrests made and over 1,200 convictions. Disorderly conduct heads the list of penal law violations with 326 arrests and 317 convictions while petit larceny is second with 283 arrests and 247 convictions.

Strange as it may seem in these days of prohibition, intoxication is third on the list of arrests with 216 during the past year and 215 convictions.

The Troopers of "C" Troop have been called on to perform many tasks which do not appear in the report as they involve no arrests but were acts of charity or mercy. During the year many unusual arrests however were made ranging from sabbath breaking, unlicensed dentists arrested, keeping sheep-killing dogs, operating an automobile with poor tires and various other seldom heard of matters.

Captain Fox in his report outlines the various activities of his men as follows:

Afternoon Gowns Show New Trend

Latest Styles Are Breaking Long Rule of Favored Sports Frock.

Fashion designers are halting with joy the return of a more elaborate style of dress. Their chief hope, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times, lies in the afternoon costume, which until lately has been in eclipse because of the sports type, which has possessed women the modern world over. The couturiers of Paris had gone almost into a state of despair over the situation before the change in taste appeared. Among those to express gratification over it is M. Paul Poiret, an outstanding designer in Paris for a quarter of a century, who lately visited the United States.

He has, like his confreres, until lately condemned the decadence of style, elegance, originality and distinction in dress, observing that every model, whatever its fabric, has been made "to pull on or to step into." He believes that women should wear a softer, more graceful type of costume, and urges the use of the beautiful embroidery and flower work that serve for the elaboration of gowns of elegance and formality.

The afternoon gowns offered this season show the new trend clearly. They offer many delightful variants to replace the sports frock or suit that has served for comfort and convenience in post-war days, and had seemed to have become a habit. In the latest models skirts are longer, and wide variations in the hem-line are achieved by means of the great diversity of styles in drapery. Gowns that dip low at the back and are lifted high in front, that have long sweeping panels at the sides or drapery that flutters in points all around, designed to suit the style of the individual wearer, are now the ideal of couturiers. A supple silhouette, fullness and ease of movement in the arrangement of fabric stand out most of all the mode of the moment.

Intricacy of Design. Madeline Vionnet is credited with creating this model in afternoon dress. The back of the gown is usually straight and plain; with now and then a deep yoke or side pieces inset and made noticeable by the seaming. Everything in the nature of trimming for the bodice or fullness or drapery in the skirt is displayed in front.

The intricacy of design of these soft daytime gowns makes them almost impossible to describe. One model of black crepe is an example. It is cut in two parts—a blouse and a skirt—the blouse having a swathed hip treatment. The two, when worn, present the appearance of a one-piece dress. At the neck is a plastron of ivory-tinted crepe de chine which covers the entire front from shoulder to shoulder and forms a jabot extending to the belt. The skirt, plain at the back and sides, has the front width drawn together in a cluster of gathers, and drops in points several inches below the side hem. This gown is repeated in almost the identical model in navy blue with the jabot and belt in a lighter shade, which is used also in facing the front drapery on the skirt.

A gown of black crepe de chine has an arrangement of graceful swirling drapery. The bodice is untrimmed and the neck is cut in a square with a point in front, with a cluster of gathers on each shoulder, and another cluster is gathered in front just above the belt, which is a narrow stitched strap of the material. The distinguishing feature of the model is a wide bias bounce which is added at each side of the skirt, beginning close to the middle front, following a downward oblique line toward the back and widening out at the point, where it drops five or six inches below the hem. The sleeves are long and untrimmed.

A combination of two colors, as, for example, a dash of vivid color on black, in some models, and in others more elaboration in drapery give formality to the crepe dresses for afternoon. The one model might easily be used for morning or for an "all-day" frock, the other, and more elaborate, for luncheon, tea or almost any occasion.

Skirt Attached to Bodice. Louiseboulanger has gone in for gowns of this sort with enthusiasm and includes some unusually beautiful models in her winter collection. One made of black flat crepe has its skirt attached to the edge of the bodice, unpressed plait being assembled in a cluster with a lifted movement in the middle front. About the hips is drawn a scarf of green crepe fastened in front with a gilt ornament, and a kerchief scarf around the neck is tied in front with a dashing bow and ends.

Gowns of crepe and the soft satins are designed to do special service for week-ends, for tea at the country club and general daytime occasions. As the season advances one sees on such occasions elaborate designs using rich fabrics. These gowns are built on simple lines, with flounces and drapery, and some are trimmed with lace and passementerie.

Gowns of velvet, too, are particularly engaging. These are shown in a wholly different range of colors, in which the monotonous and particularly the pastel shades are prominent. Some of the weaves have threads of silver or gilt. In one delightful gown all of velvet in a golden shade of beige the back is plain, and a slender cord joins blouse and skirt to a line which is pointed in the front and back and curves over each hip. The skirt is gathered slightly at the sides, the fullness being assembled in front, where the skirt is ankle-length, and the bodice is finished with a large jabot of ecru lace.

There is a tendency in many of the latest styles for afternoon to introduce lace in different ways. Several new shades are shown, the very latest being a snaky tan, which has a somber but artistic effect when it is used on black.

Metal Cloth Is Used.

In several late French models chiffon is used for this plastron and jabot effect, which because of its filmy weave is even more flattering than lace. One of these is a frock that will appeal to every woman because of its quaint prettiness. It is made of very soft black velvet with a blouse that is plain at the top and has a cluster of fine vertical tucks at each side of the waist.

Some of the Paris designers, notably Cheruit, Vionnet and Paton, are making important afternoon costumes of metal cloth. Cheruit creates an effective ensemble of black chiffon and metal brocade. The bodice of black and gilt metallic brocade, closely fitted with long light sleeves, is very long at the back, suggesting the rounded line of a man's cutaway, while it is only hip-length at the front. The skirt is extraordinarily chic, with three finely plaited ruffles of the chiffon crossing to form a lifted point in front.

A short coat of black broadtail faced with gold and black brocade is finished with a scarf of Russian satin fastened with a gold ornament and a jabot of finely plaited chiffon.

WHAT TO EAT

THERE are few who do not enjoy a well cooked piece of ham. There are so many ways of preparing it that one need never find it monotonous.

Fried Ham.

Caramelize one tablespoonful of sugar in the frying pan, add a slice of ham about one-half inch thick and brown on both sides. Cover with milk and cook covered for ten minutes. Cook slowly. Thicken the milk for gravy and serve with mashed potatoes.

Ham Souffle.

Prepare a white sauce using three tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter with two cupfuls of milk and one-half teaspoonful of salt, then add one third of a cupful of bread crumbs. Remove from the heat, add two cupfuls of cooked ham, ground, the beaten yolks of three eggs, and when well blended fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Spread buttered crumbs over the top, sprinkle with cheese and bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

Baked Sliced Ham.

Take a center cut two to two and one-half inches thick. Usually the best ham does not need parboiling. Place in a deep baking dish, cover with two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar mixed with a teaspoonful of mustard, a clove of garlic, and pour around it enough milk to just reach the top of the ham. Bake until tender.

Boiled Shank of Ham.

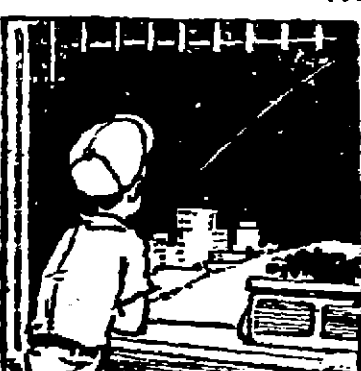

Cover a shank of ham with cold water, then simmer until tender—about thirty minutes to the pound. One hour before the ham is done add a small head of cabbage, four carrots, three small onions and one cup of parboiled lima beans. String beans may be added in season. Serve the ham in the center of a hot platter with the vegetables arranged around it.

Ham, put through the meat grinder may be used for other good dishes. Add a few tablespoonfuls of any well-loped dish of potatoes or cabbage or onion. Mixed with salad dressing it is most delicious sandwich filling for Sunday night supper.

Famous Texas Church Burns

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 12 (P).—The First Baptist Church, of which Dr. J. Frank Norris, noted fundamentalist, is pastor, was destroyed by fire today, along with an adjacent four-story Sunday school building and gymnasium belonging to the church.

The Sunday school building was claimed by the pastor to have housed the largest Sunday school class in the world.

Dr. Norris has been the storm center of the Baptist Church in Texas for years, partly because of his vigorous efforts at general reform and partly as the result of his radical fundamentalist views.

He came even more prominently into view two years ago when he shot and killed D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, in the study of the church. He was indicted and tried for murder, but was acquitted on his plea of self-defense.

The church plant, including business departments, gymnasium, etc., was valued at approximately $1,000,000.

Dance at Alligerville.

The regular weekly dance will be held tonight at the K. of L. Hall at Alligerville. A large number of Kingston dance lovers attend these dances each week, and a large crowd is expected this evening. The music will be furnished by Harry Maiseholder and his orchestra.

Had His Lesson

An employee of a large industrial concern was given a paper to sign. "Lots of reading on it," he observed, as he perused the text with interest. "Huh," remarked the clerk who had given him the paper. "I'll bet you didn't read your marriage license as carefully as that."

Hokey Centenarian

To celebrate his hundredth birthday of a few days before, M. Melrose kicked off at a Jockey's football match at York, England, recently. Melrose was formerly lord mayor of York, and on his birthday he received a telegram from the king, who referred to his long and useful life as an example of patriotism.

A Private Tutor

Helen was five years old and was not old enough to go to school. She was somewhat envious of several neighbor children who started to school this year.

After school in the evenings and on Saturdays Helen had listened to the wonderful accounts of her sophisticated little friends until she felt that she must defend her unlighted preschool age.

"I don't think I shall ever go to school," she volunteered one day. "Daddy knows everything, so I think that I'll just stay at home and let him teach me."

A Cloud for a Lining

It was their first quarrel, and it lasted longer than post-homonym squabbles generally do. But finally it was over, and the wife was consoled to a friend. "My dear, it was really terrible while it lasted," she said. "But I'm glad to be home. See what a splendid present Percy gave me afterward."

Her friend picked up the magnificent evening wrap. "Oh, how gorgeous to have a husband like that," she cried. "That's a cloud with a silver-lining lining."—Yorkshire Post.

Large Number of Criminal Cases

The trial of criminal cases at the January term of county court will be taken up during the second week of the term commencing January 21. District Attorney Traver has a large number of criminal matters which will be disposed of. A criminal calendar will be made up and the trial of cases taken up in the order in which they appear on the calendar.

Citizens' Band Rehearsal.

The regular weekly rehearsal of the Citizens' Band will be held on Sunday at 10:30 at the Elks' Club. This will be the final rehearsal on the band program to be played at the Musicians' Ball next Wednesday night, and all the members of the band are urged to be present.

POLITICAL FIGHT RECALLED.

President Wilson's first administration is remembered chiefly for the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act, but in its second year there was another legislative combat which caused more feeling and excited wider interest. This latter has been recalled in the death of Representative Adamson of Georgia who has been mostly remembered in connection with the right-to-work law which bears his name. Mr. Adamson fought with President Wilson against many prominent Democrats as well as Republicans for this country's fidelity to its treaty obligations. By the terms of two treaties with Great Britain the United States had pledged itself that when the Panama Canal was built the ships of all nations should use it on equal terms. But toward the end of the Taft administration Congress passed a bill with large support from both political parties, which exempted American ships from the canal charges. The Democratic convention at Baltimore had adopted a plank favoring this policy, yet Mr. Wilson lost no time in beginning his effort to repeal the exemption measure, and it was Mr. Adamson, chairman of the House committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, who offered the resolution of repeal.

There followed bitter opposition from Democrats as well as Republicans. President Wilson was accused of "selling out to Great Britain," of favoring the transcontinental railroads and of betrayal of his party platform. Speaker Champ Clark and even Floor Leader Oscar Underwood joined the opposition, the former in a speech scolding the "little leaders," including Mr. Adamson, who were supporting the President and thundered against "foreign domination." But in the end a majority of both the House and the Senate voted for repeal and the cause of this country's fidelity to its treaty obligations triumphed.

MONEY VALUE OF WILD LIFE.

The conservation of wild life in America, particularly of birds, has been largely urged from a basis of sentiment, with only incidental reference to the claims of sportsmen and to the useful destruction of insects found harmful by farmers. More general interest would be aroused, greater support gained, by stressing the economic more than the aesthetic gain. Amazing figures have been published in regard to the annual profits of Louisiana, this state having the most ideal conditions for the increase and the largest production of fur-bearing animals of any section of North America. Now we read that in less favored New Hampshire it has been computed that wild life represents to the state an annual value of six and a half million dollars—from game flesh, fur and feathers, insect destruction, and tourist attraction.

Multiply these figures by the number of our 48 states, making due allowance for the greater productivity of such favored regions as Louisiana, and the value of game, birds and fur-bearing animals in the United States will amount to an almost incredibly great sum. And the deduction for cost of proper protection would be relatively very small. The aesthetic claims of conservation are worthy of consideration and should be included, but the economic value is so vast as to compel conservation to be regarded as one of the nation's great and profitable enterprises.

TAFT ON THE TIMES.

In a recent interview given the New York Evening World Chief Justice Taft, although describing himself as an "optimist," uttered impressive words likely to arrest the attention of the most optimistic. Asked what he regarded as "the most disturbing element in our national life," he answered that it was "the materialistic philosophy which places wealth and worldly success ahead of every other consideration in life." A widely prevalent state of the public mind which "merits the consideration of every citizen who has at heart the welfare of the nation and the future of his children and his children's children." He thought the materialism and "the selfishness" were really the basis of the most serious problem which the nation today faces. He said that the materialistic philosophy was a "poisonous influence" which was "poisoning the minds of our children and our children's children." He said that the materialistic philosophy was a "poisonous influence" which was "poisoning the minds of our children and our children's children."

The Chief Justice might have added that this "poisonous influence" was also poisoning the minds of our children and our children's children. He said that the materialistic philosophy was a "poisonous influence" which was "poisoning the minds of our children and our children's children." He said that the materialistic philosophy was a "poisonous influence" which was "poisoning the minds of our children and our children's children."

HEART AILMENTS.

When a specialist spends all his time, thought, and energy, on one line of work, he should know something about that particular work. Therefore when a heart specialist tells us that one in every fifty of the inhabitants of the United States and Canada is afflicted with heart disease, we do not wonder that heart ailments carry off more individuals than any other one ailment.

Dr. William St. Lawrence says that at different ages the causes and types of heart ailments are different. He names three age periods in any of which the causes and types are likely to be uniform.

First, from birth to thirty-five; second, from thirty-six to forty-five; and third from forty-six until death. In the first period the organism enters the blood system most commonly through bad teeth or tonsils.

When it gets into the joints it produces inflammatory rheumatism; in the brain it causes chorea or St. Vitus dance; in the bones it causes "growing pains"; in the tonsils a tendency to sore throat.

In the second period, thirty-six to forty-five, the heart cases are due to the rheumatic organism. Stiffness in the joints in damp weather.

In the third period, after forty-six years of age, it is just a continuance of the causes and conditions of previous periods, but because the body is older, overeating, not enough sleep, and little or no exercise, the effects of the rheumatic organisms are greatly increased.

Overuse of alcohol, tea, coffee, has a very bad effect upon some cases. Now although periodic physical examinations are a big factor in preventing heart disease, nevertheless, as Dr. St. Lawrence points out, these examinations will not prevent the disease that is already there. However, these examinations will give the family physician a chance to point out the danger or likelihood of heart disease from infected teeth or tonsils, and in those who already have heart ailments, he will outline treatment that will prolong life, and enable the patient to enjoy life in safety.

So whatever the age let your family doctor look you over once a year.

CATHOLICS IN MEXICO CONSIDER COMPROMISE.

Monterrey, Nuevo Leon, Mexico, Jan. 12 (AP).—A committee of Catholics has evolved a plan to reopen the churches in this city, which have remained closed since 1926, when the priests abandoned their posts in protest against the national religious laws.

The committee has petitioned the ecclesiastical authorities in Rome for permission to open the churches with laymen taking charge of the services in place of the priests.

COLLABORATING ON A MODERN PLAY

40,000 ARTISTS FIND LIFE HARD IN FICKLE PARIS

By John Evans, (Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Paris, Jan. 12 (AP).—One person in seventy-five in Paris tries to earn a living painting pictures that are hard to sell.

There are 40,000 artists in the capital, says Paul Leon, director of the School of Fine Arts. Most of them, he admits sadly cannot make a living but still they go on painting pictures and dreaming of the fame that few achieve.

They resemble the Tower of Babel in that there are so many divergent views and interpretations of art that even critics have lost count. All kinds of art are represented from the old, old classicism that youth considers prehistoric to the surrealists and even the newest of the new, the futurists, who think the surrealists, startling as they are, are many, already are old fashioned, so rapid is the progress of modernism. Silk hat art, costly old masterpieces of centuries ago and high society modernism, is sold on the rue La Boetie and intersecting streets around the presidential palace, where there are a hundred or more fine art stores and galleries harboring millions of dollars worth of pictures. There go most of the painters with reputations.

Art for art's sake, struggles for bread and butter chiefly in another hundred or more shops on the other side of the river, in and around the rue de Seine, in the old Latin Quarter from the river to the Sorbonne. There go many of the new crop of expressionists, and there some achieve fame, sometimes quickly graduating to the carpeted salons of the rich man's art stores over where the president of France lives.

ITALY PLANS ARBOR DAY TO HALT DEFORESTATION.

Rome, Jan. 12 (AP).—Italy, like the United States, will have its national Arbor Day, starting with 1929. The loss of valuable forests, notably in the Apennines and in the lava-stricken zone near Mount Etna, has focused public attention upon the paucity of an adequate wood reserve in Italy. A national committee, headed by Arnaldo Mussolini, the premier's brother, editor of the Popolo d'Italia of Milan, is doing all it can in the way of propaganda to wake up the nation to the necessity of more tree planting.

The date for the Arbor Day celebration in the schools has not yet been fixed, but owing to Mussolini's disapproval of too many fete days it is likely that it will be made to coincide with some other celebration.

Lighting Aviation Fields.

Illuminating engineers are working with the problem of lighting the aviation fields and chemists are endeavoring to find something in the way of a new glass which will help to solve the problem. Flood lighting as now generally made use of is not satisfactory as it distorts the view from the air and often blinds the aviators when coming to the ground.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

TO FLARE OR NOT TO FLARE—THAT IS THE STYLE QUESTION

New York—To have or not to have a flare is the big topic of the day in fashion circles. It has been admitted

The Costume Suit Is Developed in Navy Blue Lightweight Serge and Beige Crepe Silk. The Sleeveless Cape Is Made Like a Short Jacket Buttoned in the Front, and When Taken Off Reveals a Blouse of Beige Silk Matching the Lining of the Cape.

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

and even for them it has had a welcome of sorts.

Although Americans are frequently accused of rushing to extremes, it is the Parisienne who has extended the glad hand to the flare silhouette for coats and even suits, some of the more extreme attaining this line by means of a peplum. The majority are for compromise. They see the utility of clearing to the pencil silhouette for one type of costume, while flaring or billowing ones are obviously liked but they see something of the absurdity of going off on a tangent and blindly following the circuitous route. Designers are intrigued by the notion that the straight line of suit or coat may be helped by molding it with the circular line of the cape. The result is sometimes simple, but more often involved. Not often do we find models the upper and lower sections of which are circular, but they do exist.

The sports ensemble has included a cape both as a substitute for a coat or supplementary to one. It is quite within possibilities that ideas along the same lines will be tried out for more elaborate costume suits on which style reporters are so frequently waxing eloquent.

FRENCH LABOURETS FIND MANY STONE AGE RELICS
Bar-Le-Duc (P).—A remarkable collection of objects of archaeological interest has been discovered by workmen carting sand near the Ornain River. These objects dated from the Stone Age to the Middle Ages.

Two sharp piercing instruments in reindeer bone and stone weights perforated for fishing nets were the oldest. There were also many pieces of pottery of the Bronze Age, an axe and a hatchet of Marnian epoch in Gaul with bits of pottery and an iron knife, fragments of vases and jars from the Gallo-Roman period and an iron sword of the Middle Ages.

Why Fishing Is Popular.

"Believe," said the ex-acting, "I have of fishing myself at the end of a line that isn't busy."

"Didn't know you cared for fish," said the other.

"I don't ordinarily, but it's the only chance I have of making myself at the end of a line that isn't busy."

"Have you seen the latest?"

"No, what is it?"

"A photograph inside that will call out when it falls into a dark corner under the bed. Here I am! Here I am!"

"Bridget, and you want to fish before you're tired?"

"No, ma'am, what's the use of wasting a thing what's lived in the water?"

"Children announce that the college man no longer is America's neighbor. We thought those falling socks would come to no good end."

"Who you care for dancing?"

"No."

"And why not?"

"She's merely looking for a partner."

"Well, what is there about that you object to?"

An ardent angler took a friend fishing. He knew nothing about the gentleman, but was set up with the necessary tackle and a nice, comfortable seat on the bank; the experienced hand started fishing. Presently the angler said, "How much do those red things cost?"

"I suppose you mean the float," said the angler. "They cost only about ten cents."

"Well, I owe you ten cents," said the angler. "The one you have lent me has sunk."

A widow is a woman who has lost her husband; a grass widow is one who has just lost her taste for hers.

The night has a thousand eyes and then can't see half as much as a jealous woman.

Coroner—You saw the deceased struck by a southbound street car?

Witness—I did.

Coroner—Was he badly hurt?

Witness—Very badly.

Coroner—Did he receive any medical attention?

Witness—No; he was carried by mistake into the drug store.

As the little chorus girl said to her sweetie, as she kissed him good-night: "So long I'll sue you later."

He: I had a wonderful time at your party last night.

She—Why, I had no party last night.

He—That so? Well, believe me, I was at somebody's party.

The Guest—She's a souvenir friend, isn't she?

Her Hostess—I should think so. The last dinner she attended she carried away the cook.

Teacher—"Name the zones."

Johnny—"Torrid, temperate, danger and safety."

Don't be conceited. If you are hit by an automobile or have an operation a heap more folks will hope you'll die than will hope you'll get well.

COUNTRY HAS PLANES AHEAD OF MOTOR CARS.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Jan. 12 (AP)—Most of the inhabitants of this region have never seen an automobile, a railroad or even a rubber tired buggy, but they regard the airplane as commonplace.

The United States marines are always willing to carry passengers whenever the seating capacity of their planes is not required for military purposes, and many Nicaraguans are taking advantage of the offer. The trip by air from Bluefields to Managua requires three hours compared with seven days by boat and horseback.

But We Know They Do

As authorities on contraband admit that they bury their heads in the sand to escape notice. This spoils a splendid comparison that has become endeared by long usage.—Minneapolis Journal.

GAS BUGGIES—Mr. Dresser Is Quite Doubtful.

PHILIPINO STUDENTS MUST LEARN TRADES.

Manila, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Philippine government will henceforth tell students who are sent to the United States what to do when they get there. An over supply of physicians and lawyers in the islands has led to a shortage of technically trained college graduates.

In view of the big demand for technologists and experts in the industrial arts they will be permitted to study only fish, meat and vegetable canning and other such industries.

Heretofore government students, or pensionados, as they are known locally, were free to choose their careers. In most instances they took up law, medicine, education and similar academic courses. Upon returning to the Philippines they found difficulty in obtaining work, since they found their professions crowded with young men and women who had been well trained in the islands for such lines of work. Many of them returned to the United States, thus yielding the Philippine government no return for the money spent for their education.

The new policy is designed to make the pensionado system more profitable, both to the student and to the government.

The number of government supported students also is being curtailed. Only five pensionados will be sent to the states this year, whereas between 20 and 25 have been sent in previous years.

HIGH-SPEED CALCULATOR AT THE MORAN SCHOOL.

A demonstration in calculating machine operation, under the direction of M. C. McLoughlin, district representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, was given at the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, on Friday afternoon.

This demonstration marked the installation of a new high-speed Burroughs calculating machine, instruction in which will hereafter be a regular part of the Moran School's courses.

Mr. McLoughlin introduced his daughter, Miss Ruth McLoughlin, an expert operator, who exhibited to the students the possibilities of the machine, performing with apparent ease many operations in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, at a rate of speed that was little short of marvelous.

Mr. McLoughlin explained that some of the most of these machines are being installed in the offices and banks of Kingston and vicinity, and that skill in operating would prove a valuable accomplishment to many students. One girl, he said, can now with the aid of this machine do the work that formerly kept five employees busy.

DUKE KEEPS HOME FIRES FOR ITALIANS ABROAD.

Nice, France, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mussolini has made another move to keep the Italian blood in the French border district faithful to Italy by providing young Italians born in France with a free yearly trip to their family's native home.

Of the 100,000 Italians in the French Alpes-Maritimes district it is estimated that there are 15,000 under 18 years of age. A great majority were born in France.

These children now need only apply at an Italian consulate and a free round-trip to Italy is arranged for them. In many cases they are supplied with new clothes and provisions for the voyage.

FLATBUSH.

Flatbush, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Clara Osterhoudt started today for a trip to Florida. She expects to stay all winter visiting various places of interest there.

Miss Elizabeth Davis is sick with a cold and William Young is sick with grip.

This week "Week of Prayer" has been observed in this community.

The Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Duckert on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Ellsworth of Port Ewen was present and gave an address.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Swart have gone to New York.

Mrs. Chester Swart and baby, Robert Lewis, are home from the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Winchell are spending some time with Mrs. Harold Osterhoudt. Mrs. Winchell is convalescing from a serious operation.

The T. X. T. Club will give a pancake supper at the club house Tuesday evening, January 15, at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Ida Burhans spent the past week at her home in Flatbush.

Mrs. Albert Woolsey is staying in Kingston at the home of her father, Fred Burhans, who has been quite ill.

PERSIAN WOMEN WERE FREE ON BATH DAYS.

Tehran, Persia, Jan. 12 (AP)—Persian women, who have just been given their first taste of legal freedom through the shah's decree permitting them to walk in the streets with their husbands, are not such novices as might appear.

According to old custom, women of high rank could emerge from their harem once a week and so through the streets to the baths on bath-day. They always went heavily veiled, of course, and were always accompanied by equally heavily veiled women servants. Women of the servant class could freely circulate in Persia for the purpose of household errands even before the shah's recent edict.

Once in the shelter of the spacious bath-houses Persian ladies would quickly exchange their silk veils and voluminous brocaded dresses for the coarse homespun of their servants and would then saunter forth, free to roam the streets or keep rendezvous arranged the week before, safe beneath their disguise as servants. At dusk they would return to the bath-houses, change into their own costumes of ladies and trot dutifully back to their prison-harems, followed by their faithful servants.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

represents 4 years of Development and over a Million miles of Testing

Never has a new motor car come to the public more thoroughly proved in every detail than The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History.

Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster getaway and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors—representing every conceivable type—were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground. This constituted one of the greatest series of tests ever conducted with any automobile. From time to time, the experimental models were torn down for inspection, redesigning and further testing—until the present motor was developed and pronounced correct.

While the new six-cylinder motor was in process of development, other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence that is extraordinary in the low-price field. From every standpoint—power, speed, smoothness, acceleration and quietness—its performance is truly amazing. Its handling ease and roadability are exceptional. Its economy of operation is so great that it delivers better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline. And its outstanding beauty, smartness and luxury are exciting widespread admiration.

You owe it to yourself to see and inspect this remarkable car. Come in today!

Pinehurst, N. C.—Maxwell wins annual Mid-January golf.

Boston—Horween Will continued coaching Harvard football.

New York—Fight crowd stands in silence in Garden as tribute to Rickard.

Joy of Self-Sacrifice
"Husbands should share the housework with their wives," says a woman's paper. We despise those selfish husbands who want to do it all themselves.—Boston Transcript.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York—Cecil Benton, visiting British artist, has failed to see a rippling, ravishing Venus in this country, whereas they abound in London. He describes a rippling, ravishing Venus as a woman with a very long, thin, almost scrawny neck, no chin at all, an abbreviated nose, three cherries for a mouth, big puffy eyes, a general bird-like appearance and beads and beads of paint.

Palm Beach—The identity of "Miss Four Hundred" is a secret. A society bathing beauty contest was held behind closed gates. The judges were confined in wire cages.

New York—Irving Cole is seeking an annulment on the ground that his bride bobbed her age and not her hair, in effect. He avers she was 35 instead of 27, as represented; that he made the discovery from an old picture with her hair done up, when it her statements were correct, it would have been down her back.

Sarajevo, Jugo-Slavia—Famine stalks on the scene of a Casus Belli. Because of crop failure and snow, residents have to make bread from hay and wheat husks in the city where an assassination was the immediate cause of the great war.

New York—Six days a week the Rev. Chester Ap. 21, is to trade in securities and the seventh day he is to preach. Part-time minister of the church of the Second Advent, in Brooklyn, he has bought a membership on the Stock Exchange for $500,000, having worked up in eight years from messenger boy, meanwhile studying theology. He believes that in the Stock Exchange are 1,100 of the most honest and ethical men to be found anywhere in the world; that there is nothing unchristian in legitimate speculation and investment.

New York—Now come red tennis balls. The idea is that on sunny days the visibility will be greater than that of white ones. The same was said of yellow golf balls the last season. But the boys who usually win hit white ones.

Washington—In the words of Senator Ashurst, "the beautiful doctrine of noblesse oblige is not dead in the Senate." So he remarked in introducing a bill for an annual pension of $5,000 to Thomas Riley Marshall's widow. The bill was passed promptly.

New York—Maybe some balls will be busted, if not the home run record. Babe Ruth has a new bat, of lignum vitae, a hard, heavy wood. It is the gift of admirers in the Caval Zone and was made from a 70-year-old tie of the old Panama railroad.

Washington—Secretary Davis is convinced that soft Federal jobs will be scarce after March 4. He reasons from the fact that Mr. Hoover is an indefatigable worker.

Berlin—There's much ado over the sudden interruption of radio-casting of a benefit theatrical performance when an actor started to recite a lampoon of Wilhelm Hohenzollern. The government authorities blame it on the weather or something mechanical; the newspapers express doubt.

FRANCE MAY CHANGE CLIMATE OF SAHARA.

Paris, Jan. 12 (AP).—An American project for the transformation of the climate of north Africa through the building of an interior salt lake in the desert region of Tunis is now officially before the French government and a decision is expected soon.

Dwight Brame of New York is the promoter of the scheme and John F. Stevens, who was engineer of the Panama Canal, is designing the machinery for the execution of the work.

The idea is to dig a canal from the Mediterranean through a series of chotts, or lakes, that dry up every summer, let in enough salt water to keep them filled all the year round, and to flood an area of about 263 miles wide.

The reclamation of 210,000 square miles of land from the desert, with farms for 4,500,000 families, cotton growing along the Mediterranean and forests springing out of the sand dunes, with an almost certain modification of the characteristics of the Arab race, are claimed as the probable results of the enterprise.

What is far more important, it is claimed that the improved conditions of life in the French and Italian colonies will so relieve the tension over colonial rivalries as to put an end to friction and war between European countries.

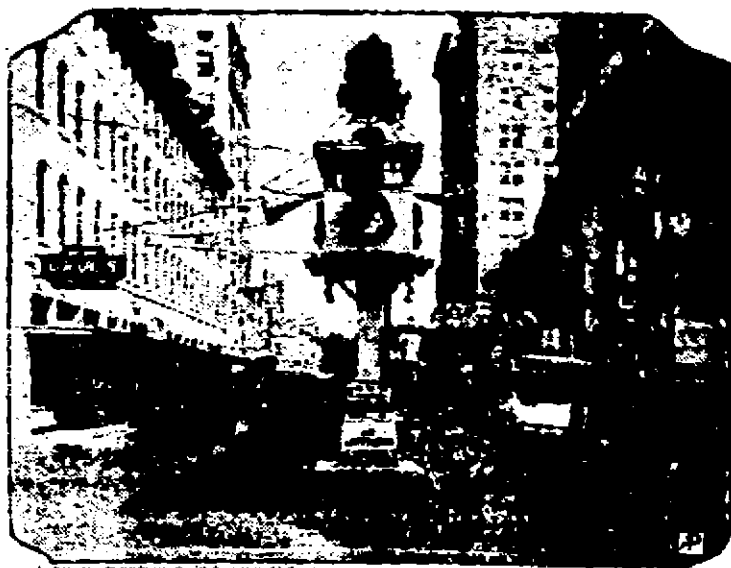

Andre Tardieu, minister of public works, has the matter in hand for the government and Mr. Brame is here awaiting the decision.

MODERN REVUE CAN BE TRACED BACK TO BACH

Paris, (AP).—Johann-Sebastian Bach has emerged as the inventor of the theatrical revue. This unsuspected side of the composer's genius was revealed in a cantata recently found at the Berlin state library, and reproduced in Paris.

The cantata was written in 1742 and was named "We have a new government." The libretto in Saxon patois adheres to the modern revue style. All numbers are in dance form and the popular song hits of the day are arranged in sprightly fashion.

Here's New Kind Of Traffic Tower

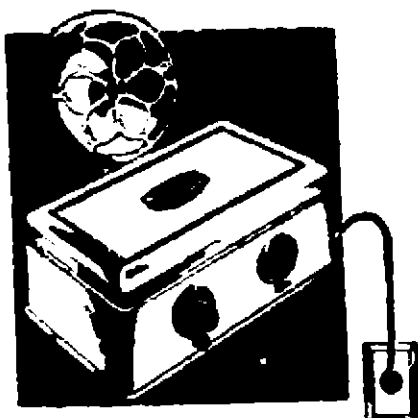

Traffic signal tower at Orlando, Fla., where the installation of amplifiers made possible the distribution of musical programs and civic announcements throughout the business district. The apparatus is also used to increase the voice range of officers controlling traffic.

Orlando, Fla., (AP).—The nation's first "triple-threat" traffic tower has been developed by H. N. Lane, city electrician here.

Some time ago the purchase of an amplifying system by the city administration proved an aid to our citizens by the distribution of civic announcements. As the holiday season approached, Lane mounted the system on a traffic tower in the business section in such a way that entertainers in a nearby studio pre-

The SANDMAN STORY

ABOUT DOG HEROES

"I've heard some splendid things about dog heroes lately," said the Sandman, "and of course I want to tell them to both of you."

"Dogs are the best animals in the world," said Nick.

"Oh, yes," said Nancy, "they are without a doubt."

"Well," the Sandman continued, "a horse was suddenly very much frightened."

"The horse was used to automobiles, and trolley cars but the horse had not been hearing anything very noisy and suddenly a trolley car came around the corner making a great deal of noise."

"I suppose it is just as it is with people. You know how sometimes a noise will come unexpectedly and we will jump?"

"I think it was much that way with the horse."

"Anyway the horse did jump and then he began to run. Oh, he was frightened and he just had to run—anyway, anywhere, just so he could run off some of his fear, or run away from it!"

"He Tried to Escape, but They Held Him Fast."

"Sitting in the back of the wagon was a dog. His master was inside one of the shops in the neighborhood."

"As the horse started to run away the dog, with a bound, jumped upon the front seat and grabbed the reins in his mouth. Then he pulled and he jumped back of the seat so he could pull still harder and be able to hold the reins together."

"And the dog brought the horse to a standstill, and about, on the street. Some people saw it and wrote to the papers and told them of the splendid dog hero who had thought so quickly of the right thing to do at the right time."

"For one never knows just where a runaway horse will run and what will happen."

"But the dog had kept anything from happening and had avoided all danger by being so quick and so brave and so bright."

"Oh, what a wonderful dog," said Nick. "I guess his master was proud of him all right."

"I'm sure of it," said the Sandman. "Well, he would be a queer master not to be proud of such a dog," said Nancy, and both the Sandman and Nick said:

"That's right!"

"Then," said the Sandman, "I want to tell you this evening, too, of the two collie dogs who caught and held the burglar who was trying to rob their master."

"It was in a big city building and the burglar knew that lots of money was kept there but the burglar did not know that two collie dogs lived in the basement of this building."

"The master had a great deal of room for them there and he had it fixed up very nicely for them and he would take them often into the country for long walks and runs."

"The burglar was leaving with the valuables he had stolen when the master, coming in, saw the burglar."

"He tried to get the valuables away but the burglar was strong and was getting the best of the master when the two collies, hearing the master's voice and knowing it sounded the way it did when the master was distressed, hurried up the stairs."

"Quickly they saw what was happening! Quickly they went after the burglar."

"Now the burglar didn't like these two big collie dogs. No, he didn't like them at all."

"He tried to escape but they held him fast."

"He had dropped the valuables but the collies still held him, as the master had not told them to let go."

"The master sent for a policeman and before long a policeman came."

"And the big burglar gave up stealing for his living after this, for somehow, not only had he been a failure, but he had been made to feel such a worthless wretch of a creature by the two splendid collies who got the better of him."

"And the third dog story I have been saying to tell you was of the little fox terrier who smelled smoke late at night and who awoke every member of a very sleepy family by pulling at the bedding upon each bed until they got up."

"The fire was put out in time but if it had been allowed to get any more headway it would have caught them all."

"And the little dog had saved so many lives! Was it any wonder that he became more of a pet to the family than ever?"

"I should say not," cried Nick, and Nancy added:

"I have always adored fox terriers!"

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

VALENTINES

HOW many people are aware that when they send valentines to each other on February 14 they are merely perpetuating an old heathen custom? Very few. Yet such is the fact. Before the dawn of Christianity Roman youths and maidens were accustomed to select partners in love for the year on that date. But, in his "Lives of the Saints," describes the observance as "The heathen, lewd, superstitious custom of boys drawing the names of girls in honor of their goddess Februa Juno." St. Valentine was a Christian bishop who suffered martyrdom on February 14, A. D. 271, and the church assigned him the day of his martyrdom in the calendar of saints. Every effort was made by the church to change the heathen festival into a religious observance in honor of St. Valentine. Butler says that "St. Francis de Sales forbade the custom of valentines, or giving boys in writing the names of girls to be admired and attended by them, and to abolish it he changed it into giving billets with the names of certain saints for them to honor and imitate in a peculiar manner."

Nothing could better illustrate the hold which ancient customs and superstitions have upon us still than the fact that in spite of all this some people today are annually obliged to remind their folks that St. Valentine's day is a Christian festival in honor of a martyred saint and to warn them against the exchange of "valentines" of a nature unsuitable for the day.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets) Florida strawberries were in very limited receipt on the New York city wholesale district today. The demand was again exceedingly light. Quart baskets realized 50c @ 75c and pints 30c @ 35c.

Price changes were few and small on California cauliflower. Trading was moderate and the tone of the market closed about steady. Sales on crates of eight and fourteen heads were reported at $1.75 @ $2.25, occasionally $2.35 @ $2.50.

Arrivals of Texas spinach were limited. The market, nevertheless, was dull and weaker with buying rather slow. Bushel baskets jobbed out at 75c @ $1.25.

The market on western New York cabbage and carrots was steady. Apples ruled dull while potatoes and onions were firm. Receipts were limited with trading fair at about unchanged values.

Offerings of string beans from Florida were limited. The market was steady while the demand was confined to fancy stock. The very finest green varieties brought $5 @ $5.50 per 25-quart hamper. Poor and ordinary ranged from $2 @ $5.

Receipts of Mexico and California green peas were light. Values, nevertheless, averaged lower in a dull market. Crates containing approximately 40 and 45 pounds from California peddled out at $5.50 @ $7, while Mexico offerings sold at $5.75 @ $6.50.

California chile was in short supply and in a limited sale at $2.50 @ $2.75 per crate. Escarole from Florida also was in limited receipt and wholesaled slowly at $1.25 @ $1.50 per hamper.

Y. W. C. A. CLASSES IN HANDICRAFT UNDER WAY.

The Y. W. C. A. plans for winter classes in handicraft are under way. The course in advanced basketry will begin on Monday, January 14, at 7:15. Miss Josephine Van Grave-ness will be the instructor and anyone who has had a course in basketry will be eligible. There will be six lessons during the course and anyone desirous of entering should phone the Y—3911—in order that materials may be secured before the opening session. These classes are very popular and a large enrollment is expected.

The course in leathercraft and parchment shades will begin very shortly. Under the direction of Miss Winifred Sullivan and Miss Lena Gasool, and all women who are interested are urged to register at a very early date so that time of classes may be announced.

Modena Minstrel.

A big minstrel with 25 in the cast will be given at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Modena, Thursday night, January 17, by Eddie's Melody Boys. The curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock and it is promised that there will be plenty of fun for two hours. The minstrel contains new jokes and latest song hits.

Nick Zinna Wins Over Carpino in Bout For Title

Main Bout On Armory Card Goes to Zinna, Who Outpoints Carpino—Rash Beats Molvin, Page Whips Painter and Brostoff Scores Technical Knockout Over Roy Van Buren—Frenchy Duwig Wins.

Nick Zinna, 157 pounder of the McCabe-Conway boxing stable here, outsmarted and outboxed Johnny Carpino, another local boy who tipped the scales at 157½, in the ten-round final bout at the armory Friday night for the so-called lightweight championship of the Hudson valley.

Carpino, who fought entirely different from his usual "mix it up" style, found it impossible to break through Zinna's defense to get over his crushing blows that had overcome many an opponent previous to his meeting with Nick. Zinna had his hands in Carpino's face throughout the battle and belted Johnny considerably about the eyes. However, distressing the blow might have been they failed to hurt Carpino's eagerness to get close enough to land a "haymaker."

The biggest assemblage of fight fans who ever visited the armory, packed the drill shed Friday night with the expectation of seeing Carpino rush at Zinna and try to overpower him with heavy blows. But Johnny did just the opposite. He was cool throughout the first round and tried to feel out Zinna for openings. He failed to find any.

Zinna did just about what most of his backers thought he would. He fought conservatively, apparently willing throughout the fracas to win by rolling up points, and caught Carpino coming and going as he expected to make way through his opponent's defense. Nick started to peek away at Johnny's face in the opening stanza and kept it up during the light. It was in the initial period that Carpino's right eye got bruised.

In the second round Zinna started his weaving. He bobbed much to the distress of Carpino and caught Johnny with blows to the face. Carpino tried to get on to Nick's style but did not succeed. In this round Carpino landed several clean blows but they were of the light variety.

The third round saw Carpino start in rather wild fashion, but he soon got conservative when Zinna began to get him with lefts. He got the south paw over frequently during this round.

In the fourth Zinna tried laying them on and then retreating. He did this to advantage for when Johnny started after him he was wide open and Nick peeked him considerably.

The fifth round showed that Zinna could hit harder than he had throughout the first four stanzas. He got closer and laid in a few stinging wallopers. Carpino delighted in seeing his opponent assume the rather reckless method of mixing it and got over a couple of blows that made Zinna respect his punching rods. By the time the round had reached the final seconds Nick was covering up and Carpino looking for a chance to reach his stomach.

Zinna continued to do the covering stunt in the sixth and Carpino laid them about his head. The crowd began to cheer for Johnny as the blows smacked, but much of their steam had been removed by the time they reached Zinna. He took most of them on the gloves. In this round Zinna slipped and Johnny got a big hand for refraining from action until Nick was fully set to continue the battle.

Carpino Strong in Seventh.

At the outset of the seventh Zinna began by laying three, to one of Johnny's punches. He got a little too close, however, as the round aged and Carpino reached his body. Johnny's blows in this round probably were the most effective of the whole fight. Many were of the opinion that Carpino took this round.

In the eighth Carpino tried his best to slug with Zinna, but Nick reached his face at will as Johnny came to him. Carpino continued and finished the round fighting in wild fashion.

The ninth round was practically a repetition of the eighth. Carpino tried to get over his haymaker, but the chance did not present itself. Johnny was straightened up by a hard uppercut as he tried to tear in during the final stages of the round.

Zinna carried the tenth. He laid them on as Johnny did his best to get close for a chance to land heavily.

Zinna took the fight unanimously. The three who decided the battle were George Heppner, the best referee that ever stepped into a Kingston ring; Harris Brown, local time man, and Joe Mitchell. Brown and Mitchell were picked as judges after much consideration had been extended as to who would act as officials for the bout.

Rash Beats Molvin.

In the semi-final of six rounds Eddie Molvin of this city found Kid Rash of New York and the veteran of hundreds of ring battles, too clever for his methods. Molvin tried to do away with the negro in the first by throwing a variety of punches. Rash apparently felt the effects of the blows, but shook them off and had Charlie in a bad way for the remainder of the battle. Molvin was floored in the third from a hard blow but did not take the advantage of the count. The sixth was a real sockfest; but Molvin's last stand was ineffective for his opponent was too strong to succumb to Charlie's heartiest blows.

Van Buren Loses.

In 1901, Benny Brostoff, 126, a clever little man from New York city, just two minutes and 25 seconds of the third round to dispose of Roy Van Buren. Benny got the decision by virtue of a technical knock-out as referee Heppner stopped the scrap. In the first round Van Buren took the count of nine.

Lee Page Wins Again.

Lee Page, one of the best colored scrappers in the New York National Guard, again defeated Gene Painter of this city in a six rounder. Painter found the negro just as tough as he proved in a previous meeting. In the third round Painter went down three times but did not wait for a count. Page weighed 152; Painter, 145.

For Starr of West Point and "Muh" Brown of the 269th Infantry fought a draw in the second four-rounder on the card. Starr, a heavy blitzer, found few openings to land his blows. His best chance came in the third when he sent over a hard right that staggered Brown. The negro weathered the storm, however, and proved a strong contender in the last round.

Frenchy Duwig Wins.

In the fourth round curtain raiser Frenchy Duwig of Kingston received the decision over Billy Aikens of New York city.

Tribute to Rickard.

The crowd that packed the armory Friday stood for one minute of silence in tribute to the late "Tex" Rickard, termed by Announcer Samuel J. Ribber as the greatest benefactor the boxing business had ever known.

The next card of armory bouts will be held on Friday night, January 25. It is promised by the management that there will be a special attraction. The main event likely will be between Vince Coffey of this city and Frankie Konechna of Port Jervis.

McLarnin Wins Over Joe Glick

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—Jimmy McLarnin, the baby-faced Irish boy who came out of the west a year ago and won the hearts of New York's fight fans by knocking out their favorite, Sid Terris, has come back to his "lucky ring" in Madison Square Garden to regain the prestige lost when he succumbed to the fists of Ray Miller. In the first bout in the Garden since the death of Tex Rickard, McLarnin smashed his way to a ten round victory over another Gotham favorite, Joe Glick, last night.

Before the final bout, the Garden lights were dimmed and the crowd of 20,000 stood in silent tribute to the founder of the great sports arena. A trumpet sounded taps from the promoter's black-draped box and Jack Dempsey, greeted by a ten minute burst of cheering, stood in the ring while Joe Humphries, veteran announcer, delivered an eulogy to his "best pal."

Although he has outgrown the lightweight class, McLarnin has not lost the speed or the paralyzing punch that carried him to the top of that division. Through seven rounds he outlasted the Brooklyn sailor, fought as a leader among the lightweights, to earn the unanimous decision of the judges and referee.

Only in the first round, when Jimmy let him set the pace, and in the eighth and tenth when he threw caution to the winds and slugged desperately, could Glick gain an advantage. In the second and third rounds, McLarnin's two handed punching had Glick in trouble and might be added to his list of garden conquests.

RODOUT A. C. BEAT ALCON QUINTET, 36-30

The Rondout A. C. took a hard-fought game from the Alcon 5 & 10 Five Friday night at the Salvation Army court. The game was closely fought throughout, the first half ending with the score 20-20. Ed Gilday and Masoa, a new comer, were the leading scorers for the Rondouts; Alcon and Levy for the losers.

The Rondouts will take on the Y's Men January 25. Both these games will be played at the Salvation Army court. A series is also being arranged with the Young Judeans to be played the first part of next month. They are also going to arrange a series with the Chandlers and would also like to hear from the Knights of Pythias.

Filling Rickard's Vacant Post Perplexes Garden, Grips Public

Carey, Chapman, Dempsey, Hammond: One of the four probably will succeed the late Tex Rickard. The Madison Square Garden Corporation joins sports followers in the guessing.

(By Jay R. Vesels, Feature Service Sports Editor)

New York (AP).—There'll never be another Tex Rickard. That's the gloomy by-word of sportsdom.

None is any more pessimistic about it than the board of directors of Madison Square Garden, where the inimitable Tex maintained his boxing headquarters.

With a million dollar corporation on their hands, and with boxing in a small and large way as its nucleus, the Garden officials are endeavoring to make their selection of a successor to the master promoter promptly.

Out beyond the confines of the directorate, the world of sports awaits with tense eagerness while the field is scanned for material to carry on in the big things that Rickard planned and did.

The presidency and general management of the gigantic sports concern may be left with a man chosen from within the Garden directorate.

Here in New York are some men identified with sports who have gained attention in major promotion, perhaps as much attention as could be expected in the day when Rickard dominated the field with his genius for staging, here and elsewhere, stupendous boxing shows.

There is Colonel John S. Hammond, now acting president, the man who brought major league hockey to New York, making it an instant success, much to the profit of the Garden corporation.

There is John H. Chapman, who is to the bicycle racing world what Hammond is to eastern hockey and what Rickard was to boxing.

Another is Humbert J. Fugazy, long rated as Rickard's only rival in the metropolitan area, a man who struggled along as a boxing promoter, accepting mediocre success as a part of the ill luck of having to compete with Tex Rickard.

Jack Dempsey, without whom Rickard might never have reached the heights he did, was mentioned as a possible successor, but Jack discouraged this idea from the first.

Favorable reports have been circulated about William F. Carey, a Wall Street broker and a vice-president of the Garden, and his chances of being named for the vacant post. Carey was closely associated with Rickard in running the Garden.

"It is a situation that may remain unchanged for weeks, possibly months. Regardless, it's a 'show me' attitude the masses have taken in this business of trying to pick someone to take Tex Rickard's place."

Playing their first game in three weeks, the Kingston High School varsity basketball team defeated Beacon at the local school gym, 20-10, Friday night.

CORNELL'S GRID SQUAD IS SMALL

Eighteen Men Will Be Lost by Graduation in June

Cornell faces its next football season with the smallest group of regulars that it has had in years. Eighteen men will be lost to the squad by graduation this June. This number includes practically the whole regular forward wall, the only part of Dobbs' team that furnished any ray of sunshine to Cornell's gridiron showing during the past season. Sam Wake-man of Quincy, Mass., is the only regular lineman who will come back. Both ends, Captain Scholes of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and Wrample-meyer of Cincinnati, Ohio, both regular guards, Warden of Emd, Ohio, and Waterbury of Ithaca, center, Kneen of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and John Anderson of Glendale, Ohio, tackle, will be missing from the picture next fall. In addition Alexander of Westfield, N. J., and Parker of Tampa, Fla., regular ends, and Stei-lberg of Syracuse, tackle, fade out. The backfield loses Dietrich of St. Louis, Mo., Beck of Trenton, N. J., Bristol of Oceanside, N. Y., and Lyon of Kansas City, Mo.

The regular backfield men remaining are H. Johnson of Charleston, W. Va., M. Johnson of Greenwich, Conn., N. E. Scott of Attleboro, Mass., and C. T. Hoffman of Douglaston, L. I.

Other senior members of the squad who will be lost to the team include Sherman Allen of Fair Haven, Vt., Wesley Bender of Rockaway Beach, N. Y., William Ibold of Cincinnati, Ohio, Bernard Katz of Philadelphia, Pa., and William Quast of Louisville, Ky.

Dobbs can look for little help from his freshman team as there are only a few men in the aggregation who look like varsity material. Bob Stoen, of Lakewood, Ohio, reading quarterback, is the most promising of the newcomers to the squad. Other members of the freshman team who saw regular service during the past season include: Thomas Scott, Glen Cove; B. W. Langston, Wrentham, N. J.; A. L. Larson, White Plains; J. K. Estabrook, Fayetteville; W. C. Martin, Rochester; I. V. Tullar, Ithaca; J. C. Martinez, Ithaca; Frank H. Warren, Chicago, Ill.; Andrew E. Tuck, Syracuse; W. P. Beyerle, Baltimore, Md.; L. M. Handelman, Patchogue.

Stribling Will Fight Sharkey On February 27

New York, Jan. 12 (AP).—The Stribling-Sharkey heavyweight fight will be held at Miami Beach, Fla., on February 27 at Miami Beach. This announcement was telephoned here today by Jack Dempsey from Boston after a conference at which Jack Sharkey agreed to terms for the bout.

Final negotiations for the fight, which was in the balance after the death of Tex Rickard, were completed overnight by Dempsey and William F. Carey, vice-president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation. Dempsey will leave shortly for Florida to take active command of arrangements.

In his message here Dempsey did not disclose upon what terms Sharkey agreed to the match but it was understood there was a "cut" in the original Rickard guarantee of $100,000.

Stribling advised Carey yesterday of agreement to any terms fixed by the garden officials.

WANTS TENTH MAN ON LEAGUE TEAMS

Heydler's Plan Is Discarded by Americans.

Perhaps the most interesting proposal that has occurred in baseball circles for many years was that of President John A. Heydler, who wanted to inject a tenth man into each major league "line," writes Wray of the St. Louis Post Dispatch. The American league rejected the proposal but it has interesting possibilities.

The tenth man was to take up the attacking duties of the pitcher, who thus would be able to conserve all his energies for defense. Under the plan the pitcher would not be removed merely to let a pinch hitter bat for him when the prospects of a score were good. The tenth man battling for the pitcher throughout the game would take over all the batting and base running which the pitcher normally was called upon to do.

The mere proposal of such a plan suggests that the pitcher of today has degenerated into a mere shadow of his former greatness.

He is no longer a baseball player—just a thrower of baseballs, specializing in only one phase of the game's many requirements. One cannot be go back to the days when baseball was played much more wholeheartedly.

He would find a period when clubs carried only a couple of pitchers. When one of these was not pitching to the opposing team, he was playing the outfield. Pitchers could do things then. In a pinch they could play any old position.

Pitchers then did not have to be relied in more than 50 per cent of their efforts, as is the case today. Charley Knabourne won ten successive games in 50 days.

The records of other days are filled with accounts of great pitchers who were also great hitters and who could field like shortstops or chase fly balls with the best of them.

The world knows about at least two of these who are still active—Babe Ruth and George Slaughter.

If the specialization of the pitcher is to be continued to the point where he ceases to function as a baseball player, we might suggest that anyone of the mechanical curvers be employed to replace him, and thus save the expense of a high-class man.

Donie Will Have to Suffer Alone

Donie Bush, spirited little manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, ran into Johnny Evers at the National league meeting in New York. There was a rousing welcome between the two.

"Certainly glad to see you, Johnny," chirped Donie. "I'll get some rest from the umpires now that you are back in the league."

"Nix, nix," said Evers, "I'm off umpires for life, so you'll have to suffer alone."

Ace Coming Back

Lee Meadows, once ace of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who was forced to quit the game last season because of a sore arm, declares he will return to the game this season in better shape than ever.

David S. Jordan Played Baseball 60 Years Ago

One of the pioneers in the great American game of baseball is David Starr Jordan, former president of Leland Stanford university, who is now nearly eighty years old. He gives an account of his introduction to the game in The American Magazine.

"When baseball first got under way in this country," he says, "we sent the blacksmith from our town over to Buffalo to see how it went. He brought back such glowing reports that we organized the Gainsville Zouaves, with red shirts and white trousers, and challenged all comers."

"I was a Zouave and developed into a heavy hitter, once knocking three home runs in a row. I thought the game offered a promising field of endeavor until one day I crashed into the catcher when both of us were after a pop fly, and broke my nose."

"However, I never lost my love of baseball, and I played with the Stanford faculty team until I was fifty-eight. Then I reluctantly gave up the game because my batting was miserable and my speed was slower."

DUO League Results.

In DUO League basketball games Friday night, Newburgh High School defeated Middletown at the Hill City, 30-25, and Port Jervis outscored Poughkeepsie, 22-16, at Port Jervis. The Newburgh-Middletown went three over-time periods before the game was decided.

King Brady Claims Born With Jinxes

King Brady, the Northwestern university trainer, claims he was born with more handicaps than Horatio Alger, Jr., ever was able to encounter any of his heroes with in Chapter 1 of the "Oblivion to Renown" series.

Weighing only three and one-half pounds at birth, Brady was cross-eyed, freckle-faced and left-handed. And if all that wasn't enough, his father washed the names of "Alexis Finch" on him a few hours later. Despite that combination of circumstances, King has risen to eminence in his chosen profession.

body and severely, that another clergyman almost instantly believed of Dr. Phillips' great popularity, accepted the silly gossip as truth, and preferred charges of immorality against Phillips, following them up with such abuse and innuendoes that a number of leading members of the church, and among them the Rev. Dr. Phillips, in the absence of Phillips, and called by Phillips to the same position. Among these were: General George H. Sharp, John Vandevelte, Thomas Thompson, Charles, Isaac Clearwater, John Cameron Smith, James O. Merritt, Edward Wheeler, Andrew J. Story, John Scott Smith, Thomas H. Hallock, William Moore.

When the trial of the Dominick case, he indignantly was defended by the Rev. Dr. Phillips, of the Kingston Presbyterian Church, and the wickedness and groundlessness of the charge fully was established.

Indicative of the faith of the community in the doctor's integrity was the fact that the Ulster Greys, a local military organization, the members of the Masonic Lodge and the Fire Department, attended the services at the Presbyterian Church in a body. The ladies of the doctor's congregation gave him a benefit at which his portrait, painted by John Vandevelte, was put up at what then was called a raffle. It was won by the keeper of a leading hotel, who placed it in a prominent place in his hotel parlor where thousands of tourists to the doctor's health resort, drunk by citizens of all classes from chimney sweeps to bank presidents.

It was not long before he received a call to a church in a much larger community in New Jersey, where he served until his death. When that happened, the members of this congregation bought a burial plot in Wiltwyck Cemetery; his remains were brought here and interred there, and this congregation erected a monument to his memory.

When all this happened I of course was a boy, but so exclusively was it the topic of conversation that my recollection of these details are vivid. I never shall forget the vigor with which my mother, my grandmother, my aunts and my associates defended the charming bride who was the innocent cause of this which turned out to be a serio-tragic comedy.

These noble and high-minded women denounced the traducer and the prosecutor as inspired by envy, not by love of the Lord, and showered social attention upon the innocent bride who became not only a favorite, but something of a heroine.

My mother and grandmother especially were her champions. The clergyman who prosecuted so viciously, subsequently was compelled to resign his pulpit by the unanimous action of his consistory and congregation, and eventually the greater number of those who had left his church because of his action, returned to the church of their ancestors.

Kindly present to the members of your congregation, and accept for yourself my heartiest congratulations upon the phenomenal success in spiritual and temporal affairs, which has been showered upon you all.

Always sincerely and affectionately yours, A. T. CLEARWATER.

Royal Prussian Miser
Of Frederick of Prussia it is said that "he was great in great things but little in little ones." This remarkable soldier and sovereign, who extended the territory of his states enormously and was the founder of International colonization and the cultivation of vast regions, who opened canals, instituted mortgage banks and mercantile marine companies, would sit in state upon the application of a dancer at the royal opera for a pair of stockings.

If one of the actors needed a new helmet or plume, the king would consider the matter seriously for some time and answer the written requests personally.

He would lay out large sums for building a fine new theater, but he would refuse to supply the proper amount of candles to light the house during theatrical performances.—Thrill Magazine.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER
50, TO YED YOUTH OF 21
Parents of the Boy Are Heartbroken Over His Matrimonial Intentions.

Lynn, Mass.—Mrs. Teresa Eliza Deane, fifty-year-old widow and former assistant pastor of the First Christian church on Chestnut street, will become the bride of Leonard Clarke Wade, thirty-year-old junior, if plans for their wedding are carried out.

News of the engagement of the elderly church worker to the youth because known recently with the filing of wedding intentions with city clerk Joseph Atwell at city hall and Town Clerk Ralph D. Merritt of Swampscott.

Mrs. Deane in the intentions said her age was fifty, that she was a widow and her occupation that of nurse. She gave her address as 15 Farrar street, Lynn, although it was said at that address she has not lived there for three months. Young Wade, according to the intentions, became twenty-one two weeks ago.

Mrs. Deane is now working as a nurse in Attleboro, Mass. Parents of Wade are heartbroken over his plans to take as his bride the woman who was formerly his Sunday school teacher. In their home in Swampscott they declared they have done everything possible to break off relations between the boy and Mrs. Deane, and have pleaded with Mrs. Deane to discourage the boy's attentions, but that she has absolutely refused to give him up.

According to members of the First Christian church, Mrs. Deane was a Bible student, a mission and prison worker, an accomplished musician and lecturer on Bible subjects. She was ordained to the ministry at a special service at the church four years ago which was attended by hundreds of residents of the city.

She made an exhaustive study of the early fathers of the church. Before her resignation from the church she was superintendent of the Junior Christian Endeavor society, superintendent of the cradle roll department, assistant superintendent of the Bible school and a teacher of the young men's Bible class. Young Wade is a graduate of English high school, class of 1926, where he was an honor pupil two years ago. He planned to study for the ministry but gave up the idea. At present he is employed as a teacher worker by Peabody.

Claim High Record for Irish Potatoes
Jefferson, N. C.—Colvard Bros. of Jefferson claim to have established a new record for Irish-potato production in North Carolina when they harvested 541 bushels to the acre, bettering their former record by 100 bushels.

The planting was done in co-operation with E. C. Turner, county agricultural agent. They used 4,400 pounds of fertilizer and 35 bushels of seed. The cost of production, formerly 41 cents a bushel, was but 35 cents under intensive cultivation.

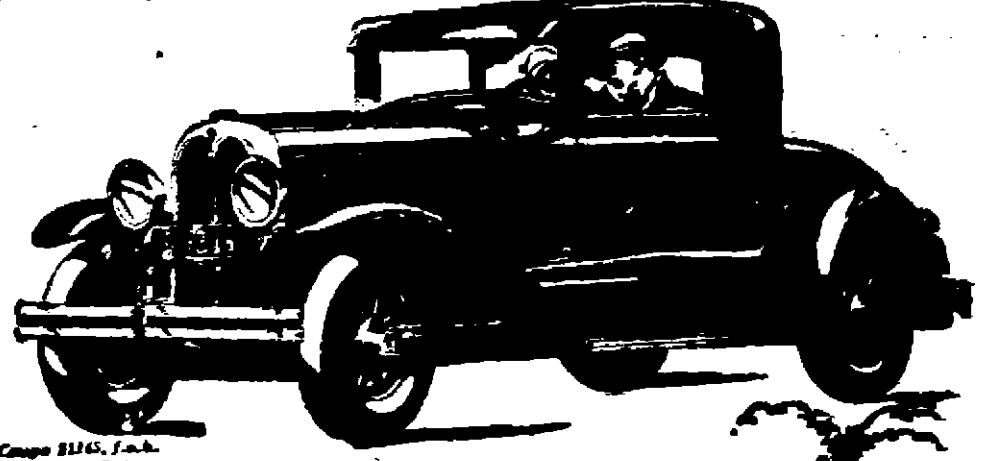

Next year Colvard Bros. hope to break the national nonirrigated record for potato production.

600,000-Pound Pressure Exerted by New Device
Cambridge, Mass.—A machine capable of exerting 600,000 pounds of pressure per square inch has been perfected here by Percy W. Bridgman, professor of physics at Harvard.

The device, a small one, was said to produce pressure as great as would be exerted by an ocean 250 miles deep or an atmosphere 5,000 miles high.

Eventually, Professor Bridgman said, he hoped to raise the potential pressure to 800,000 pounds per square inch. It was said he has had several narrow escapes from injury while the apparatus was in the experimental stage.

The Height of Inconvenience
Straining on tip toes to attach the toaster to the light fixture, so that you may prepare breakfast at the table—and then struggling with another unsightly cord to attach the electric percolator—are you put to the height of this inconvenience in your home? A chaos of cords from a light socket, very possibly a blown fuse, an unsightly room—all these result from the fact that proper attention has never been paid to your house wiring.

In the correctly wired home—which means a Red Seal home—there are convenience outlets wherever they are needed. Lighting fixtures are undisturbed by the attachment of electric appliances, for there are enough outlets conveniently placed in the baseboards to which appliances may be attached. The Red Seal plan is for old houses as well as new ones and it so provides for future needs that as your electrical equipment grows you need not increase your wiring facilities. Any member of the electrical league can give you the details on Red Seal wiring.
